A unique approach

Our Bio-Focus network provides a route to biological product evaluation, ensuring the most successful outcome for your product. In summary, our Bio-Focus network provides:

- Regulatory advice, dossier preparation and follow up
- Data gap analysis and waiving strategies
- Laboratory and greenhouse efficacy screening for early stage candidates
- Regulatory efficacy studies for local, international and global submissions
- Field demonstration platforms for marketing purposes
- Effects on quality and taints on harvested produce
- Regulatory toxicology studies
- Regulatory ecotoxicology studies
- Product chemistry studies

Eurofins Agrosience Services offers the largest managed, 'in house' contract research capacity in the world

Bio-Focus addresses three fundamental questions:

Let our experts lead you through the biological registration process and related studies; we match your biological product to existing regulatory categories to determine the best registration strategy

An integrated service

The Bio-Focus network offers quality and reliability as part of an established global organisation:

- Scientific and regulatory expertise to design programs and adapt methodology
- Extensive global field network and fully equipped laboratory facilities
- Scope of testing, from laboratory and early stage screening through to field demonstration platforms
- Solid technical know-how
 - numerous projects with biological products for a multitude of sponsors in recent years
- Careful project coordination through our local or international teams
- Evaluation and integration of innovative tools for field testing
- People development and training program

Bio-Focus - an integrated service for your biological portfolio, bringing together our experience across regulatory, field and laboratory teams to maximise the potential of your biological product
