

Food labelling services: Global market access

Labelling food correctly and in accordance with national regulations is essential in order to meet access requirements in destination markets. A failure to meet mandatory requirements can have serious consequences, including the withdrawal of products from sale.

Eurofins Food Assurance offers a comprehensive food labelling service, through which you can access the expertise of our global network of food safety consultants who can review your labels and advise on everything from design to allergen declarations.

Eurofins Food Assurance teams work with consultants and food safety experts all over the world. We cover an extensive network of countries and can translate legal text from virtually any language to another in Europe, Asia, America and Oceania.

We can offer RUSH services.
