Authenticity Testing

The globalization of the food market increasingly leads to food adulterations, which oftentimes involve the decreased quality of high quality products. Even religious and ethical criteria can be at risk in the case of food adulteration.

In order to verify the authenticity of products, food testing laboratories need reliable methods, which can answer these questions.

The application of specific methods can, for example, determine whether expensive meat or dairy products such as turkey meat or buffalo mozzarella are substituted with lower priced products such as chicken meat or cow milk. For vegetarian or vegan food, the presence of traces of animal products need to be ruled out.
